

Collaborating for the Future of Internal Medicine: A Medical Educators Think-Tank

Innovators

April 19, 2016

10:00-11:30 APDIM

Facilitators

- Steve Angus, Univ. of Connecticut
- Eric Holmboe, ACGME
- Ron Jones, Summa Health
- Chris Knight, Univ. of Washington
- Gina Luciano, Baystate Health/UMass
- John Moriarty, Yale Univ.
- Anne Pereira, Univ. of Minnesota
- Michael Rosenblum, Baystate Health/UMass

Brainstorming Objectives

- Generate a prioritized list of central themes for UME, GME and CME innovations to ensure that internists are competently trained to meet public and healthcare system needs
- Become participating members of a sustainable online think-tank to continually focus on the future of innovative medical education
- Develop an action plan to introduce an innovation at their home institution

Timeline

- 5 min Introduction
- 5 min Eric Holmboe (ACGME) on state of the art medical education and impact on care/society
- 10 min open discussion to choose topics: Poll everywhere or open space technique
- 40 min Innovation groups
- 25-30 min Sharing
- 5 min Wrap-up and next steps

AAIM online community

Taking it home

- How will you bring an action plan back to your institution?
- What are the steps for success?
- How do we overcome challenges?

Questions

- Michael.rosenblum@bhs.org